

E-BROCHURE

Atlantic

The 64m sailing yacht ATLANTIC is a replica of a 1903 William Gardner-designed schooner, which set the world record for transatlantic crossings in the early 20th century – a mono-hull record that stood for 100 years.

She offers a unique charter experience, with the romance of yesteryear complemented by the safety and assurances of a modern yacht build, including all the systems and the level of comfort and luxury that modern-day charter guests have come to expect.

Inside, the salon is separated from the dining room by a thick drape. Featuring an L-shaped red velvet sofa, wood panelling and porthole windows, it is the ideal setting for a formal diner, or a relaxing drink enjoyed with friends.

ATLANTIC can accommodate 12 guests across six cabins, including a grand master, a further two double cabins and three twins, all with private en suite and all decorated in timeless style. Guests are looked after by a highly capable crew of 11.

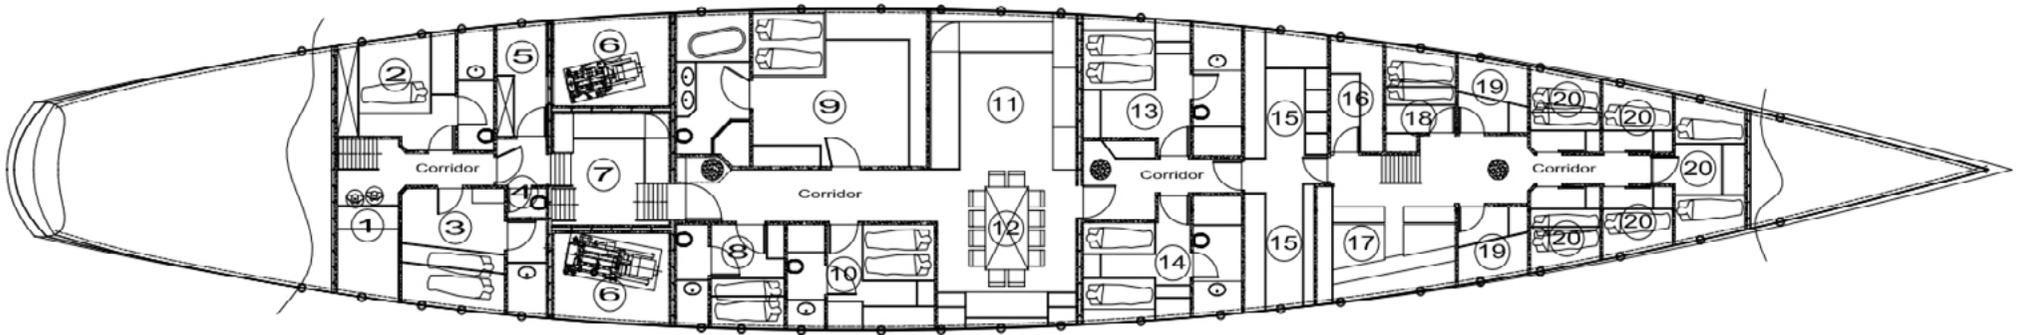

Out on deck, the racing past of the original yacht allows for large, open teak decks on this reproduction, giving plenty of space for embracing the ocean environment, plus room for sunpads, deck chairs and an alfresco dining table.

ATLANTIC also comes with a 6.50m RIB and a sailing dinghy for further exploration of the chosen destination.
